Golf Tournament Sets Fundraising Record for Scholarships

Congratulations to all who played at and sponsored the Washington DC Post Annual Scholarship Golf Tournament, on a beautiful and sunny Friday afternoon on April 16th!

Thanks to you, the Washington DC Post raised a record $9,000.00 for our Scholarship Fund! This is a real success story and an example of our Post's generosity and dedication to give back to our community and to our industry.

Also, a special thanks to our Golf Tournament Director, Mike Pavlides of PBS&J, and to all the volunteers! With special thanks to PBS&J, that had at least a dozen of their staff helping out!

The Washington DC Post Annual Scholarship Golf Tournament is truly earning its reputation as one of the best Charity Golf Tournaments in the Washington DC area!

In this newsletter issue, we feature examples of how the Washington DC Post is giving back to our community. This is one of the underlying strengths of our Post Members.

Community service examples include the participation of URS, a DC Post Sustaining Member Firm, in the AIA CANstruction Event, and the participation of our Young Members in the upcoming Race for the Cure 5K.

I highly encourage all to donate to or participate in the Race for the Cure 5K on Saturday, 5 June, with a tribute to the memory of Jen Titus. Jen's husband, Leo Titus, was the Washington DC Post's Young Member of the Year in 2001. Many of the Washington DC Post members have been affected directly or indirectly by breast cancer, and this is a terrific event that raises money for research, education, screening and treatment programs.

This month we are fortunate to have the United States Naval Academy host a lunch program on Thursday, May 13th. This program will look back at the disaster recovery efforts of Tropical Storm Isabel. The program will also include the U.S. Navy's subsequent and significant design and construction program. Mark your calendars today and join us for this presentation and networking opportunity with the U.S. Naval Academy and Naval Facilities Engineering Command staff.

We are also kicking off a Membership Drive that includes a free lunch for a SAME member who brings with them a non-member to a program!

See you in Annapolis on May 13th!

SAME Connections

Connecting Through Community Outreach

You may remember reading about "SAME Connections" in our January 2004 newsletter issue where we featured our first article, entitled the "Unseen Pillars of Civilization". That article focused on SAME's values of integrity, patriotism, public service, dedication to our national security, technical competence, excellence, and environmental stewardship. The SAME Connections section of our newsletter aims to showcase how our SAME Sustaining Member Firms and Individual Members reach out to the local community, help foster public-private partnerships, and contribute to the A/E/C industry.

In this issue, we bring you four exceptional examples of how our Washington DC Post Sustaining Member Firms and Individual Members are connecting and reaching out to the local community.

One of our Sustaining Member Firms, URS Washington DC office, recently won a Structural Ingenuity CANstruction Award, from the American Institute of Architects (AIA) Northern Virginia Chapter, for their innovative design/build project of Snoopy sleeping in his doghouse, with the theme "Making the Dream a Reality". The canned goods are donated to local shelters, clinics, soup kitchens, emergency pantries and hospices. Indeed, when you set your heart on it, you can make a dream become a reality. (Pg. 4)

In addition, our Readiness Committee recently organized a group of SAME members to participate in an Evacuation Exercise at Camden Yards. The exercise gave members a first time look at how an evacuation exercise is performed and there where some very good lessons learned from attending. (Pg. 6)

Our Young Members Committee is spearheading a group to participate in the 2004 National Race for the Cure run/walk, in tribute to a SAME Young Member's family, and in support of a good cause. (Pg. 7)

Furthermore, the Washington DC Post recently held its Annual Scholarship Golf Tournament, with all proceeds going to the DC Post Scholarship Fund. Many of our Sustaining Member Firms and Individual Members contributed to this program, and had a great day of golf and fun. (Pg. 8)

We are most grateful to and proud of our Washington DC Post family of firms and individuals for their continued support.

URS Sustaining Member Firm Wins Award at AIA CANstruction Event

The URS Washington DC office received the "Structural Ingenuity" award as part of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) Northern Virginia Chapter's design/build competition to create inspired structures built entirely out of canned foods. This is the second award for "Structural Ingenuity" received by the URS Washington DC Office - the previous given by the District of Columbia Chapter of the AIA.

This kickoff CANstruction event by the AIA Northern Virginia Chapter showcased the creativity of Northern Virginia's design community for the benefit of the Arlington, Virginia Food Assistance Center. Besides the Structural Ingenuity category, awards were given to other competitors in three additional categories: "Best Meal", "Best Use of Labels", and "Juror's Favorite".

URS designed and built Snoopy sleeping on his doghouse to represent the team's theme - "Making the Dream a Reality". The 8-foot sculpture comprised 2,100 cans, including tomato sauce, tuna, and Hershey's chocolate syrup, which offers a clue as to why URS did not win in the category "Best Meal".

Nearly 20 URS Washington, DC staff volunteered their time for this event, providing services ranging from CAD design, structural feasibility analysis, and transportation of the cans to the site. The competition was held at Ballston Mall in Arlington, Virginia, and sculptures remained on display throughout the month of April.

CANstruction, a not-for-profit foundation of the Society of Design Administration, was initiated a decade ago to support the following mission: CANstruct a World Without Hunger. Now, more than 80 cities nationwide participate in the annual competition, donating the canned goods to local shelters, clinics, soup kitchens, emergency pantries and hospices.

Bowman Consulting Sustaining Member Firm Announces Promotions and New Director

Bowman Consulting announced the promotions of several individuals to its senior management team as well as a new Director of Land at its Prince William office.

Roy E. Waugh, PE, has been promoted to Director of Engineering in the Fairfax office, and will oversee the operations and management of the engineering department. Mr. Waugh has been with Bowman Consulting since 1998 and has over 20 years of experience in the engineering industry. He holds a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering from Virginia Tech.

Jeffrey A. Blair has been promoted to Branch Manager of Bowman Consulting's Alexandria office and will lead the project delivery and business, marketing and recruitment initiatives for the office. Mr. Blair joined the firm last year and has over 16 years experience in the civil engineering industry. He holds a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering from Ohio State University.

Gary Bowman, the President of the firm, said "these individuals have demonstrated superior performance and commitment to the company, to our clients and employees. By executing flawlessly against our corporate vision and direction, they have enhanced our position in the industry".

Mike Gordon, Branch Manager of the Prince William office, welcomed Martin E. Crahan, AICP as Director of Planning to the firm. Mr. Crahan brings to Bowman Consulting over 30 years of experience in land development design and planning in the Washington metropolitan area and has held key positions in both government and private industry. Mr. Crahan holds a bachelor's degree in Architecture from Ohio State University with post graduate studies in Urban Planning and Administration.

Bowman Consulting is a provider of planning, engineering, architectural, and environmental consulting services, with over 250 staff at multiple offices throughout the region.

ISABEL RECOVERY OPERATIONS BRIEF

On 18 September 2003, Tropical Storm Isabel blew through the Virginia, District of Columbia and Maryland area, leaving destruction in her wake.

The United States Naval Academy experienced significant damage as 100-year flooding filled classrooms, laboratories and utility rooms across the Yard. Join us on Thursday, 13 May 2004 in Bancroft Hall, the heart of the Naval Academy, as CAPT Mike Doyle, Public Works Officer, discusses storm recovery operations and lessons learned.

Washington DC Post Participates in Evacuation Exercise at Camden Yards

Led by the Washington DC Post Readiness Committee, SAME members and guests met at Camden Yards, home to the Orioles, on Saturday, 22 April 2004, to participate in a Readiness Exercise, organized by the stadium staff.

Jim Simpson, (USPHS), 2003 SAME National Readiness Committee Chair, brought his wife and three children, as well as other children from his neighborhood.

Paul Mills (CSC), Charles Rimbach (Bolling AFB), Matthew Schmitz (Bolling AFB), Heather and John Longly (CCE), and Jill Harrison (PBS&J) also attended. Staff representatives from the DHS and MEMA were present. A number of television stations were also present to cover the event.

The drill consisted of two evacuations from two separate sections of Oriole Park. Charles Rimbach provided a useful critique of the exercise, that will be forwarded as a "lessons learned" document to park officials.

In exchange for their time, each volunteer received an Orioles ticket to any game of their choice, Monday through Friday. Water and soft drinks were provided for volunteers.

Attending this Readiness Exercise is one step forward for the Washington DC Post Readiness Committee efforts in supporting the goals and objectives of the SAME National Security Programs initiative.

The Washington DC Post Readiness Committee is planning some exciting programs for the year, and updating the Fast Start Plan (Operation Fast Start).

Paul Mills, CSC, at Camden Yards, proudly holding up the SAME sign.

The Fast Start Plan is aimed at assisting government agencies locate contractor contact information and identify services that they can provide to a federal agency in the event of an emergency. In order to further update the Fast Start Plan, the Readiness Committee is asking all Sustaining Member Firms to participate in the Plan by filling out and forwarding their questionnaire to one of the Readiness Committee members.

Jim Simpson, USPHS, Chair of the SAME National Readiness Committee, and member of the SAME Washington DC Post Readiness Committee, with family.

Please take a moment to fill out this questionnaire, that is available by going to the Readiness web page at www.sameDCpost.org/readiness.htm. Please complete the form and fax to Jill Harrison at 301.210.5159.

Washington DC Post Participates in the National Race For The Cure 5K

The Susan G. Komen National Race for the Cure will take place on Saturday, 5 June 2004 in Washington DC.

Last year, the 5K walk/run raised over $2.3 million in grants for breast cancer research, education, screening and treatment programs. Since last year's race, one of SAME Washington DC Post's Young Members lost a loved friend, wife and mother, Jen Titus, to this disease.

The Washington DC Post is participating in this event to honor Jen and to celebrate her life.

Please consider participating in this year's Race for the Cure in memory of Jen - either as a race participant or with a donation to the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

Leo Titus, Jr. PE, her husband, was the recipient of the Washington DC Post's Young Member Award in 2001.

Several Young Members would like to form "Jen's Team", with her Parish, in her honor, and walk/run the race together and raise money for the foundation.

Our goal is to raise $500 and our team would participate as a tribute to Jen's life. We would be assigned a team registration code that each of us would use when we complete our individual registration.

We all have been saddened by Jen's passing and the loss for the Titus family. This would be a way we as an SAME Post could honor Jen and contribute to the fight against breast cancer.

If you would like additional information on the event, please visit the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation website at: www.natl-race-for-the-cure.org

If you are interested in running/walking in Jen's memory, please contact either Kim Fulham at khfulham@adelphia.net or Helen DiTommaso at ditommasoj@aol.com.

Washington DC Post 2004 Scholarship Golf Tournament

Over $9,000 Raised for Scholarships. THANK YOU!

The 2004 SAME Washington DC Post Scholarship Golf Tournament, held on a beautiful Friday afternoon, on April 16th, raised over $9,000.00 for the Washington DC Post Scholarship Fund.

This was a very successful tournament, with everyone having a great time. There were also a number of excellent prizes for the winners.

Each individual player on a winning team received a $50 gift certificate to the pro shop. These were awarded to each winner of the 'longest drive contest' and 'closest to the pin' contest.

In addition, the members of the team with the highest score each received some Tennis balls, with the hope that those team members can also try to excel at another sport!

Kevin Malpas (Forrester Construction), Greg Rissmiller (George Mason University), Geoff Lewis (DBI Architects), and James Peck (MBP), Washington DC Post President - camera ready at the 15th hole.

There will be another opportunity next year, so make sure to keep practicing and that car may very well be yours next year!

Mike Pavlides (PBS&J), Scholarship Golf Committee Chair, looking on to make sure everything was running smoothly during Registration.

The winner of the closest to the pin contest went to Kevin Barkley for his drive on the 15th hole, that put him less than 3 feet from the pin. This earned Kevin a $50 prize as well as the opportunity to take a 50-foot putt, which if he would have made it, would have earned him $2,500 in cash, compliments of MBP. Although close, the putt was not made.

Thanks to the efforts of the PBS&J team for their Golf Committee members organizing the event. Mike Pavlides, Chair of the Golf Committee, did an excellent job of getting so many volunteers. Shown here, Cyndi Arnold, Mike Pavlides, and Jodi Rooney who made Registration Smooth!

Chris Budd and Andy Ratliff, both from PBS&J, practice putting before their round.

There were a few players that were close to winning the 2004 BMW 325 convertible - while trying for the Hole-In-One on the 7th hole. No sweat though!

Washington DC Post 2004 Scholarship Golf Tournament

In addition, all players had the opportunity to win many items through random drawing. Items won by our golf players included a golf bag, gift baskets with yummy food items, dinner at Bill Bateman's restaurant, a half hour massage, golf shirts, sleeves of golf balls, and many other donated fun items.

There was also a 50/50 raffle winner that took home $100.

Appreciation also goes to volunteers from various firms who donated their time to help out with the tournament.

Mulligans improved some players scores. Mulligans were sold this year at 1 for $5, 4 for $20, and 8 for $30. Teams were allowed a maximum of 8 mulligans per team and 2 per individual. After 18 holes and a lot of laughs, players came back for cold drinks like pink lemonade and iced tea, and a great pasta dinner.

While relaxing on the clubhouse porch, teams exchanged stories of the round and were awarded prizes.

Chris Budd and Andy Ratliff, both from PBS&J, practice putting before their round.

The Washington DC Post wants to thank all participants and corporate sponsors, as well as corporate donations, that helped make this tournament a success.

Jill Harrison (PBS&J), fueling up before her round.

Join us again next year! But remember to keep practicing for a chance to win that Beamer or Bentley you've always wanted!

What truly counts, though, is the great team spirit of all our members and guests, and the continued dedication in support of the Washington DC Post Scholarship Fund.

Thank You for your continued support!

Washington DC Post 2004 Annual Membership Drive

The Washington DC Post is an active SAME Post that Serves the Engineering Community in the National Capital Area. The DC Post has over 1,400 members, with over 130 Sustaining Member Firms. The DC Post's Sustaining Member Firms and Individual Members encompass professionals from diverse fields. Our members are planners, architects, engineers, construction and environmental scientists, educational and research and development specialists, IT professionals, and many others. Many of our members serve on SAME National Committees and some on the National SAME Board. Many also serve on the DC Post Board of Directors and as Committee Chairs and volunteers.

The Washington DC Post 2004 Annual Membership Drive is your opportunity to share with others the benefits of SAME membership and to introduce new members to our Award Winning Post, all the while garnering some points for new memberships.

Our membership is the lifeblood of our Post. To recognize this, the SAME Washington DC Post is launching a two-pronged effort as part of our emphasis on increasing and enriching our membership.

First, we will have a Membership Drive starting in June 2004, and continue that effort through November 2004.

The Washington DC Post Membership Drive winners will be announced at our Holiday Party in December.

Prizes will be given for the most memberships garnered, and a free lunch for anyone who brings a new member to the meetings.

In addition, we will be offering the following prizes to those who sign up one or more new members:

Individual Member Recruitment

Sign Up 1 Member
Attend 1 Program/Luncheon of Your Choice

Second, we will be distributing a Membership Survey in the near future, for our current members to comment on programs, meeting location, and other suggested activities.

The Washington DC Post is growing, there's no doubt about that. Growth equals extending the SAME mission, vision, goals and objectives to others, and providing additional networking opportunities for all.

We look forward to another great Membership Drive!
